Background: BRS is a temporary intensive wrap-around support and treatment program administered by the Children's Administration (CA) of the Department of Social and Health Services (DSHS) for youth with high-level service needs. BRS is used to stabilize youth in home or out of home, and assist them in achieving a permanent plan or a less intensive service. Effective July 1, 2018, BRS and other functions of the CA will be absorbed by the newly created DCYF.

Before 2009, the state used a regular process to analyze the cost of providing services. The Governor's Vendor Rate Committee monitored cost increases experienced by vendors and made recommendations for rate increases tied to economic and other indicators. In fiscal year 2009, this committee was disbanded and regular rate increases were halted. Later, the 2015-2017 operating budget increased rates by 3 percent in each fiscal year of the 2015-2017 fiscal biennium. Also in 2017, CA implemented an add-on rate of $750 per child to the current rate paid to any of the facility-based BRS providers.

CFC is charged with forecasting entitlement caseloads for the State of Washington, along with other caseloads as directed by the Legislature. CFC meets several times a year to adopt official forecasts that provide the basis of the Governor's maintenance level budget, and are used by the Legislature in the development of the omnibus biennial appropriations act.

Summary of Bill: DCYF must adjust contracted rates for BRS to reflect the actual costs of care provided for such services. To determine actual costs of care, vendors must furnish DCYF with adequate documented evidence of the cost of providing services at an extent and frequency as determined by DCYF.

The CFC must forecast the number of youth expected to receive BRS. BRS placements must be forecasted and budgeted as maintenance level costs.

Appropriation: None.

Fiscal Note: Available.

Creates Committee/Commission/Task Force that includes Legislative members: No.

Effective Date: Ninety days after adjournment of session in which bill is passed.

Staff Summary of Public Testimony (Human Services & Corrections): PRO: Dozens of children eligible for BRS are being placed out of state, with some children staying overnight in hotels instead of receiving in-patient care services because of facility closures. The bill represents a conversation piece for this legislative year and moving into the next budget year. The CFC may have recommendations to make sure rates are reasonable prior to a February meeting.

The BRS-eligible youth population has been forgotten by the public and requires a lot of resources and services to move out of the dependency system. 2009 brought about a 10 percent reduction in BRS rates due to recession. With exception of recent rate increases, BRS rates stayed the same. Residential facility costs have gone up while reimbursement rate remains low. Some organizations are losing money without adequate number of kids in the program and are forced to close, losing over 170 beds in the last eight to nine years. There are 70 to 75 BRS youth placed out of state now. An increase in rates to a manageable level for residential providers would stop bleeding and closures. Rate increases should be for the residential BRS providers since BRS foster care rates are manageable in comparison. The fiscal note might be too high if rates are adjusted for both foster and residential BRS beds.

We are losing foster parent potential without residential BRS beds. BRS youth get moved around so much that their records and IPs are inaccurate, and most have not completed a medication trial or have incomplete psych evaluations. Sometimes a child placed out of state is not told until the last minute and must leave with only half of their luggage with only a custodian of the state.

We need funding and services that are sustainable and consistent, and it is difficult to recruit and retain qualified staff at current rates. Specialized BRS programs are more available out of state. The number of kids sent out of state corresponds to the number of beds lost over time.

There are examples of successes from youth served by BRS facilities. All residential BRS providers have to report to CA a certain number of statistics regarding kids. A vast majority of kids served by BRS facilities end up in permanency—with a relative, adoption, or foster care. The cost of business for BRS facilities is $411 per day, with reimbursement at $248 per day.

Youth can get evidence-based and professional treatment with BRS providers. BRS youth are the state's fiduciary responsibility. Current reimbursement rates are at 60 percent. Hotel stays are ten times the cost of current BRS reimbursement rates. Accurate BRS rate forecasting is needed.

Staff Summary of Public Testimony (Ways & Means): PRO: Since 2009, the state has lost 170 beds for these children. Currently 60 to 70 youth are housed out of state and 195 in hotels. We need to figure out a long-term solution. This bill would result in the reimbursement rates more accurately reflecting the actual costs of providing services to these children. Most of these children are severely traumatized as a result of abuse and neglect and they experience multiple failed placements before receiving behavioral rehabilitation services. Failure to fund will cost more in the long run. Providers cannot tolerate underfunding any longer and without additional funders they have no ability to increase capacity. There is a crisis at hand. The number of beds are declining and there are significant start-up costs if providers want to expand capacity. Funding in the Governor's budget brings group homes in line with facilities but for many providers this still falls far below actual costs.
